

Introducing "The Nurse's Station" A New Audio Podcast—By Nurses/For Nurses

(Nanuet, NY) August 7, 2008 — Renal Care Registered Nursing Services, the Nanuet, New York-based company that is the leading provider of acute mobile kidney dialysis services to hospitals and institutions throughout the Metro New York area, today announced the launch of "The Nurse's Station", an audio podcast available as a free download on iTunes and on the company's web site, www.renalcarerns.com. Hosted by Jim DeMaria, BSN, RN and Janice Breen, RN, The Nurse's Station is a bi-monthly podcast that discusses current events and issues affecting the nursing community at large. The show also features guest interviews with fellow nurses and answers questions from listeners who write to the show.

"There are precious few recourses for nurses to share their opinions on the state of our industry. As more people gravitate to "on-demand" content with their iPods and other mp3 players, we feel the time is right for a show like this," said Jim DeMaria. He stresses that the show will be interactive and that listener-generated content will play an important role. "We really want to hear from nurses all over the country and even abroad. As a group, we tend to be a vocal bunch—so getting nurses to chime in shouldn't be an issue," added DeMaria.

About Renal Care Registered Nursing Services

Since 1991, Renal Care Registered Nursing Services has been the Northeast's leader in acute mobile Hemodialysis, providing professional, on-site services to some of the area's largest hospitals and care giving facilities. In the wake of our nation's most severe nursing shortage, Renal Care is there to give you the resources you need and the level of skill and reliability that only their handpicked team of highly trained nurses can provide. Visit them today at www.renalcarerns.com.